And this great reset touted by psychopaths like Klaus Schwab at the World Economic Forum is fundamentally about changing global finance to create a single world currency that will be digital. There will be no cash, means every transaction is trackable. So what they want to do is want to crash the world economy.

The global structure would be a world government dictating to every community in the world, not least through technology. And so what they've been doing in this covid here is getting governments to accidentally, utterly bankrupt themselves. You're. You're hungry. Oh, we haven't got the money for that. We can't do anything about that.

We've got the money. COVID, how much do you blow? You want, Money's been unbelievable amounts of money. I read an article, I was staggered, I had to read it twice. That was saying that 80% of the dollars in circulation have been put into circulation in the last two bloody years. These countries are now auto, auto ban, but they've done.

Thing else, they have put so much fake money created out, not inter circulation, that inflation is going through the roof and it's not really come to the extent it's inflation way of. Also they have systematic broken down the supply chain. I've seen interviews with people working at container ports, places where goods are moved through, who've been who've said, We've been told to hold onto things, slow everything down.

What's, Why would they do that? Because the supply chain delays add. To the inflation because the scarcity drives the price up. So everything is going up. So decisions have been made by American corporations and corporations in Europe and around the world. China is, as over the decades, has become the dominant source of production for so much.

So you've handed China control of the. Economy, you certainly handed China control of the supply chain. Cause if that stops, then what are you gonna do? Are looking at a situation where they have hold the economy under the waterline and it's gonna become more and more and more. And they wanna wind it.

Wind it up to the point where there is total global economic chaos. That's what they want because this cult, they want to be able to come forward. This is in their. As the saviors, the world is in this terrible state. You're in this economic turmoil and desperation. We're gonna do gonna,

We want everything, and this is the Klaus Schwab line. You will own nothing.
